Tro Service—Capt. George Flavel, now in the city, made a proposition yesterday to the committee appointed by the board of trade, to sell his sugar now used on the Columbia river bar. His offer, it is understood, is viewed favorably by the committee, and within a new days, subscriptions will probably be received for a joint stock company to buy and operate the tugs. A meeting of the committee was held yesterday afternoon, the prevailing sentiment being, in case the purchase was made, to importantly buy or build another tugbort of great sower, suitable to the requirements of the Columbia striver bar.

ELD TO ANSWER,—Mrs. Geim was yesterday or there, in which a subscription of predictions with the part of the columbia striver bar.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 24, 1882. PROHIBITION IN KANSAS.

H. A. Tucker, D. D., Testifies to its Enforce-ment and Moral Influence.

ASTORIA, Feb. 16. TO THE EDITOR OF THE OBLUONIAS: I hope a sense of fair play, which has always naracterized THE OREGONIAN, Will induce yes to insert the following extract from an article in this N. Y. Christian Advocate of Feb. 2d, by B. A. Pucker, D. D., on the effects of prohibition in Kaneas, Very respectfully, J. McCURMAC.

south to the line of the state, then east to your starting point, you will not find one open salout, one county scoepted, in sai this herritory; and this is in a part of the state last settled. This gives at areal larger than the united areas of New Hampshire, Delawier, Massachusetts, Khode Island and New Jersey where there is not an open salout. Durnhammers and aware, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Jersey where there is not an open asloon. Drunkenness and quarreling have greatly decreased. It is almost impossible to find a drunken man in Kansas. In fifteen years from now all the children in Ransas can say, "We never saw a drunk man." As to quarreling, that has almost entirely disappeared. Whom men are sober they are not apt to fight. Crime has greatly diminished. From the report of the police judges of the following hows this fact is assertand, which is a strong argument in favor of prohibition, namely, by taking one mouth under the license system and comparing the number of arrests

One strong example of a change in favor of the law may be found in the election of Leavenworth county for November 1881. In 1880 the county gave a majority against prohibition of 2896. The election of county officers in November 1881 was on the issue of prohibition and anti-prohibition. The election of county officers in November 1881 was on the issue of prohibition and anti-prohibition. The election of county officers in November 1881 was on the issue of prohibition and anti-prohibition. The officers. We see in this 2 change of nearly 2400 votes in one year from opposing to supporting prohibition. The total votes careful this county are glout 500. This is the most atriking example of change in favor of the law. But wherever the law made on the question of prohibition the temperance people gained a large number of votes. There was no county where there was a falling off of the temperance vote. The governor thinks there is a majority of 75,000 in the state now in favor of the law, it has worked so well state now in favor of the law, it has worked so well state now in favor of the law, it has worked so well state now in favor of the law, it has worked so well state now in favor of the law, it has worked so well state now in favor of the law, it has worked so well state now in favor of the law, it has worked so well state now in favor of the law, it has worked so well state now in favor of the law.
